Lake Wakatipu

Lake Wakatipu is the third largest lake in New Zealand and at 84 km long, it's also the longest. Its name comes from Maori, Whakatipu wai-māori, which could mean "growing bay" or "bay of spirits", depending on the translation of the historic Southern dialect.

The Z-shaped lake was carved out by a glacier more than 15,000 years ago during the last ice age.
